Sewer Bill Correction Project Starts in DC

Nine employees of the North San Mateo County Sanitation District are busy this week in a back corner of Daly City's City Hall, correcting its $400,000 overbilling snafu.

The temporary employees, who began working Feb. 12, are expected to work through March 9 on the sewer bills.

Their job is to retrieve information from the city's water meter books and post it on computer print-outs that show the actual amount citizens in Daly City, Colma and unincorporated Colma were charged last fall for sewer use.

The sewer charge was based on four months of winter water usage during 1977-78. Overbilling resulted when property owners were charged 88 cents per 100 cubic feet of water instead of the 59-cent rate authorized by the district's Board of Directors.

Although Richard Dwyer, accountant for the district, has estimated it will cost $100,000 to correct all 22,000 bills, the cost so far is less than $13,000.

Dwyer said he intends to bill the district between $3,000 and $4,000 for his role in straightening out the error.

The district's engineering consulting firm, Resources, Engineering and Management of South San Francisco, attributes $3,497 of the $14,000 it has billed the district since last June to resolving problems connected with the overcharge.

Working eight hours a day at $3.45 per hour, the nine temporary employees cost the district $2,484 during the first two weeks.

District Manager Peter Archuleta refused to speculate on what the total cost of correcting the bills will be.

He said the district is negotiating with banks to work on the job. The bank selected by the district will be responsible for mailing refunds to citizens; it also may calculate the refunds, based on information gathered by the temporary workers.

Other anticipated expenses are postage, computer time and, perhaps, $1,724 per month that the district has authorized Archuleta to spend on a full-time finance director.

If a finance director is hired soon, his time will be devoted to straightening out the billing problem.

Archuleta said he has no idea what the remaining costs will be.

A 'Precarious' Site? There Is Mixed Reaction To Condos

Eighty condominiums being built on what appears to the mayor to be a "precarious" site are causing mixed reactions in Daly City.

Past problems with erosion from the hill behind them where the Cypress Point Condominiums are being constructed has caused three store managers in the Alto Serramonte shopping complex on Gellert Boulevard to be wary of the project.

Five managers said they favor the development.

The project also sparked a controversy when Innisfree Companies of Sausalito sought a building permit from Daly City.

The City Council approved the plans last year with a 3-2 vote over Councilmen Tony Giammona and (now mayor) William Schumacher's protests.

Schumacher continues to be adamantly opposed to the project.

He explained, "My concern is the soil stability. The problem, as I see it as a lawyer, is they're putting the slopes that are below and above the project in common ownership so that the people that buy the units will own the slopes and will have the responsibility of maintaining those slopes. That puts them in a difficult position if the slopes fail."

Schumacher said his personal opinion is that the project site looks "precarious."

Should portions of the cliff erode, he said the store owners located below will have every right to sue the owners of the condominiums.

Schumacher recalled that he asked a geologist hired by the developer at a council meeting whether the geologist would guarantee that the hill would remain secure. The geologist said he could not guarantee it.

Hank Baker, vice president of Innisfree, said, "The city of Daly City has very tight restrictions on us. I think the public can be assured that we will have to make sure that hill will stay where it is."

Baker claims that the condominiums will make the hill more stable than it ever has been because of reinforcements that have been added — specifically, 127 caissons, each two feet in diameter, that have been sunk vertically to "nail" the hill to the ground.

He said those caissons probably would support a 10-story highrise.

In addition, Baker said his company has put 2,000 feet of hydroger pipe horizontally into the hill which will drain ground water into a storm drain system that is part of the project.

Since the soil is sandy there, he said rain tends to go right into the ground.

Baker admitted that Innisfree has had problems mud slides during the recent rain storms and that the owner of the shopping complex required his company to post a bond during construction in case there is any significant erosion.

The company has been trying to keep the land in place with large plastic sheets on the side of the hill.

But Baker said, "When the project is finished, it should be a lot more secure than a lot of houses built on flat land."

Five managers of stores located below the project agree with Baker.

"We had six feet of dirt slide down that hill during the past two winters. Now that they've started building, we've had no more problems," said Bud Huebsch, owner and manager of Ernie's Liquors.

He added, "The only way to get rid of the erosion is to build something there."

Although his restaurant recently had problems with mud from the project, Assistant Manager John Nance of the Sizzler said he thinks the development is a good idea.

Tadzio Kowalczyk, manager of The Satisfied Ear, called the development "insane" and said, "I hope no one ends up in my back room when it begins to rain."

Lauren Obley, manager of House of Hatch Covers, said she worried

3 Killed In I-280 Accident

San Francisco Chronicle columnist John L. Wasserman and four other persons were killed in three separate auto accidents in San Mateo County during the weekend.

A fiery head-on crash Sunday night on Interstate 280 near Hickey Boulevard in South San Francisco resulted in the deaths of Wasserman, who was alone in his car, and two as yet unidentified occupants of another vehicle.

Police said that a speeding motorcyclist being chased by a policewoman slammed into a fence near Railroad Avenue in San Mateo early Sunday morning and was killed when he was thrown across the railroad tracks. The victim was identified by San Mateo police as Dan Gower, 28, of 207 S. El dorado St., San Mateo.

Another person was killed in an accident on Highway 101 south of San Francisco International Airport Sunday night.

Wasserman, 40, was a popular critic of all forms of entertainment, from films and pop music to pornographic movies and the Hooker's Ball.

Castelan Gets Projects OK'd

Senior citizen activist and active senior citizen Julius Castelan won the Daly City City Council's approval on two of three proposals he made Monday night.

The council readily handed over $830 to tide over a senior dance and music program headed by Castelan which otherwise would not be funded from March through June.

The project was funded last year under the federal Housing and Community Development Act (HCDA) through February. It again received tunding this year, beginning in June.

The council also agreed to Castelan's proposal that he be permitted to transfer $1,600 from a previous HCDA housepainting project to another housepainting enterprise being funded under the federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act.

But Councilman Albert Teglia threw up his hands in despair when Mayor William Schumacher proposed that the city staff "negotiate" with a child-care agency called Daly City Community for Children's Services over the leasing of a vacant school site to DCCCS.

City Manager David Rowe explained that the Jefferson Elementary School District refused to lease the space directly to DCCCS but would lease it to Daly City which, in turn, could lease it to DCCCS.

Teglia demanded to know more about the arrangement, including the amount the school district would charge the city. He said he didn't want the city to end up supporting the child-care organization.

The DCCCS in the past has had organizational and funding problems which caused the agency's leaders to ask the city for money several times.

Schumacher said his choice of the word "negotiate" was unfortunate and that he in fact had intended merely that the city staff investigate the arrangement.

Nevertheless, Teglia voted against Schumacher's motion to that effect. It passed 3-1.

When Teglia asked Castelan if he'd be asking for any money for DCCCS. Castelan replied, "Not a cent."

DC Parking Control Extended

Plentiful parking meter fines will continue to enrich Daly City's coffers, thanks to the City Council's unanimous decision Monday night to create a permanent parking enforcement officer position.

The council's action came in response to the grim news that Daly City would lose about $8,000 in fines per month with the departure of Police Assistant Mary Glass.

Ms. Glass was hired with federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act funds that were due to expire Feb. 28.

Most of the city's non-moving and parking meter violations are written by Ms. Glass and Officer Rick Brewer, who spend their entire shifts ticketing cars.

At Police Chief David Hansen's request, the council Monday created the permanent position of "police assistant" at a monthly salary ranging from $867 to $995.

Although the duties of the position also will include serving subpoenas, performing station security duties, serving at the police complaint desk and directing traffic, council members emphasized that they wish the employee to spend 80 percent of his or her time writing parking tickets.

City Manager David Rowe said Daly City probably will hire someone immediately for the job. However, he said the person will be employed on a temporary basis, pending the council and Personnel Board's approval of job specifications.

Rowe said he didn't know whether Ms. Glass would be hired back or if she has accepted employment elsewhere.

A Private Gallery?

Daly City's city employees were alarmed Monday morning when they discovered that the portraits of the city's last three mayors had been stolen from a wall in the center of City Hall over the weekend. The pictures of Albert Teglia, Anthony Giammona and Victor Kyriakis were the only color portraits among the extensive gallery of former mayors' photos that were hung when the building opened 11-1/2 years ago. City Clerk Anna Ohlendorf said one of the councilman whose picture had been stolen jokingly remarked to her, "Maybe someone wanted them for target practice."

What Will Be Called 'Doelger'?

The Daly City History, Arts and Science Commission Thursday will consider the suggestion that John Daly Boulevard be renamed Henry Doelger Boulevard.

The suggestion was referred to the commission by the City Council, asking that the commission consider this request and alternatives, take testimony and report its recommendation to the council.

Commission Director Samuel Chandler said several alternatives have been proposed, among them are naming the Westlake Library or Westlake Park after Henry Doelger. Another suggestion, Chandler said, is assigning the founder of Westlake's name to North and South Mayfair avenues.

Other suggestions of streets that could be renamed to honor Henry Doelger include Wilshire Avenue, Park Plaza Drive or a street in the Westlake Estates portion of Daly City.

D.C. Honors Long-Time Employees

Daly City's city employees were honored at dinner Friday night at Westlake Park Community Center.

Among those recognized for five-year increments of service were City Clerk Ana Ohlendorf, City Librarian Samuel Chandler, Director of Parks, Beaches and Recreation Charles Vincent, City Manager David Rowe and Acting City Engineer Clarence Mobley.

Verne Simpson, an employee in the motor vehicle division, won the city's 1978 Safety Suggestion Award for his proposal that Daly City install a better fan system in the city's welding room.

The $50 cash award Simpson received was donated by Rollins Burdick Hunter of Northern California, the city's insurance consulting firm.

Daly City employees make about five safety suggestions each month.

Employees recognized for 25 years of service to Daly City were William Chalmers, Albert Perada, Alfred Bender and Frank Rehe, all of the water division; and Robert Crooker and Philip LaBruzzo of the Police Department.

Honored for 20 years of employment with the city were Mrs. Ohlendorf, Chandler and Vincent; Maxine Gates of the library system; and Vernon Brooke, Eugene Klingler and Jack Winters of the Fire Department.

Receiving recognition for 15 years of service were Rowe; Adolph Bernard of the water division; Donald Campbell and Howard Ferrel of the Fire Department; Donald Cubic, Richard Seguine and Robert Sola of the police department; Alexander Gallegos of the maintenance division; and David Hernandez of the water utility division.

Good Thing, Just One Girlfriend

Ernie Pezzola of the Original Daly City Protective Association told the City Council Monday night that he was outraged about the growing number of cars sporting illegal "preferential parking" stickers.

The stickers are supposed to be given out only to residents of certain neighborhoods in different parking areas around BART. But Pezzola said he spotted one car the other day that had stickers for both the "A" and "B" neighborhoods.

In the style of Sherlock Holmes, Pezzola tracked down the guilty car owner to a single address, where the offender's daughter told him, "Once in a while dad stays overnight with his lady friend, so he needs two stickers."

Gonella Sees Fatter Checks for Teachers

Teachers in the Jefferson Union High School District will be receiving fatter checks on April 30 unless "unforeseen circumstances" arise, according to Superintendent Floyd Gonella.

In his opinion, the Feb. 15 state Supreme Court decision on public employees' wages authorizes the district to pay its teachers the 7-1/2 percent raise that has been in limbo since last September.

Teachers won the raise, retroactive to Feb. 1, 1978, after a 15-day strike.

But the pay increase was held up when the district was threatened with losing $7 million in state surplus funds. The California legislature's dole-out bill prohibited raises to public employees during 1978-79.

The state Supreme Court struck down portions of that bill as unconstitutional. Like other school districts, JUHSD is trying to determine how the court's ruling applies to its employees.

One key question is whether the decision applies merely to employees who had negotiated new contracts before the current fiscal year or whether it applies to all public employees.

Gonella has advised the teachers' union, Local 1481 of the American Federation of Teachers, the district will begin paying them the 7-1/2 percent salary increase on April 30 "if there are no unforeseen circumstances."

He said teachers will receive May 1 a lump sum payment for retroactive pay covering the period of Feb. 1 through June 30, 1978 and another payment June 1 for the period of Sept. 1, 1978 through March 31, 1979.

The district's staff already has begun computing the checks.

After studying the court decision, Gonella said he personally thinks the increase and back pay are legal. However, he stressed that the district must receive clearance from the county district attorney's office before the payments may be made.

The passage in the 36-page ruling that convinced him that JUHSD teachers deserve the money reads as follows:

"We are persuaded by the claim that the legislature intended to treat all local government employees and officers in a uniform manner and that to distinguish in the application of the condition between employees who had contractual rights to a wage increase and those that did not...would violate that intention.

"Thus the condition is also valid as applied to general law city and county employees who were not entitled to a wage increase."

Building Costs Up, M-H Seeks Funds

Soaring construction costs have prompted Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City to begin a new fundraising effort.

Sister Florence Urbine, president of board of directors, said the hospital's expansion program is costing more than originally expected. Construction expenses have increased during delays Mary's Help has experienced in obtaining building permits, she said.

As a result, the hospital is inviting the community and businesses to join The Mary's Help Foundation by making tax-deductible gifts to the expansion fund.

Citizens who contribute up to $100 will be classified as "members" of the foundation.

Those giving $100 to $1,000 will be "sponsors," contributors of $1,000 to $10,000 will be "benefactors," donators of more than $10,000 will be "patrons" and those who give more than $100,000 will be "founders."

All contributors will receive the hospital's publication, "Focus," will have their names listed in the magazine and will receive special invitations to seminars and other health-care educational functions.

The hospital's expansion program, due to be completed in mid-1981, will increase its current 230,000 square feet of space by 170,000 square feet on three levels.

In the additional space will be expanded out-patient, intensive care, radiation therapy and emergency room facilities, as well as more storage space.

Lincoln Park Headway Stalled Again: Councilmen Is Ill

The Daly City City Council's plans to move full speed ahead on Lincoln Park came to a standstill Monday night, because of Councilman Victor Kyriakis' absence due to illness.

A motion to put two remaining properties up for sale was defeated with a tie vote, as was a motion to demolish the structures on the two lots.

Councilman James Tucker made the motion to demolish the houses at 941 and 985 Brunswick St., noting that vandalism is a problem at the vacant structures.

Along with one house that is up for sale and two that are to be moved to other sites soon, they are the only structures blocking the way for a park that will be bounded by Brunswick, Winchester, Templeton and Action streets in the Crocker section of Daly City.

Tucker said he personally extinguished a blaze set by vandals in one of the empty homes.

Mayor William Schumacher agreed that it would take too long to try to sell the structures.

City Attorney Albert Polonsky said a maximum of 65 days would be needed if the city wished to sell the houses on Brunswick Street.

Councilman Anthony Giammona made the motion to put the homes up for sale, arguing that the city should be able to get back some of the money it spent buying the houses from their original owners. Councilman Albert Teglia supported the motion.

After both motions failed, Schumacher suggested continuing the topic until the next council meeting so that Kyriakis could break the tie.

Referring to Kyriakis' past opposition to demolition of the homes, Teglia said, "You just defeated your own purposes, gentlemen. You would have gained a week if you'd gone along with us."

Other business:

• The council unanimously approved a negative declaration and granted a use permit for a Midas Muffler shop at the northwest corner of Mission and School streets, as recommended by the Planning Commission. The council previously turned down an application for a fast-food store there.

Representing the developer, Midas Realty Corp., Paul Hupf said the muffler shop would not operate at night and would abide by 12 conditions imposed by the city.

Mill Valley, Wasserman went to work for the Chronicle in 1963 as an assistant critic. In 1970 he became a columnist and was recently named head of the newspaper's drama, film and pop music department.

His thrice-weekly columns were known for their biting wit and satirical viewpoints. He was also a free-lance writer whose articles appeared in a number of national publications, and he had worked as a radio disc jockey, a talk show host and a teacher with San Francisco State University's extension service.

KNBR morning disc jockey Frank Dill noted that Wasserman had worked on his show as a critic-commentator more than 10 years ago.

He is survived by his father, Louis Wasserman of Gualala; his mother, Caroline Wasserman of Mill Valley; a brother and a sister. Funeral arrangements are pending.

Authorities report that the other car was apparently traveling on the wrong side of the freeway when it smashed into Wasserman's small car.

A spokesman at the San Mateo County Coroner's Office also said the two persons in the other car were pronounced dead at the scene.

Several managers said the construction is driving mice into their stores.

According to the developer, model units will be open June 1 and all of the two- and three-bedroom condominiums will be ready for occupancy by this fall.

Baker said his company won't be announcing the price of the units until June.

The project is a joint venture between Innisfree and the Housing Capital Corp. of Washington, D.C.

Planner Named for Daly City

Daly City's long search for a new city planner ended Tuesday when City Manager David Rowe announced the appointment of Robert Vasquez to the position.

Vasquez, now employed by the City of Imperial Beach, will start in Daly City March 26.

He previously was employed by the City of Huntington Beach and by the Irvine Co.

Vasquez plans to marry March 3 and relocate in Daly City within a few weeks, Rowe said.

Tickets are being sold for the Mary's Help Hospital Guild's annual "Day at the Races."

Mrs. Howard Poblitz, Mrs. Albert Fambrini and Mrs. Frank Lawson are chairing the March 21 event.

Tickets this year are $10 each and that will cover the cost of admission to the Turf Club and luncheon. A bus will be available to those who pay an additional $3.

Husbands and friends are welcome to help the Guild raise money to help reduce the guild's pledge to the hospital.

Reservations will close March 14. For details or purchase of tickets, contact any of the co-chairwomen.

Mrs. Elaine Padian of Westlake is seeking items for a garage sale being sponsored to raise funds of the One Great Hour of Sharing project of the local churches.

The sale will be held March 10-11 in San Francisco with proceeds pledged to the annual fund-raising drive of the Protestant churches.

Clean discards are sought by the committee and Mrs. Patrick Padian will be happy to provide details concerning collection points, pick-up service and sale location.

THE DIET CORNER

Good morning, good cooks.

If family meals are becoming more and more routine as winter wears on, look to lamb for a welcome change of pace. There is a variety of lamb cuts that won't strain the food budget. Less costly choices include shoulder roasts, arm and blade shoulder chops, shanks and lamb for stew.

Ground lamb is another budget balancer that's sure to brighten lagging appetites when served as broiled patties with a currant-orange sauce.

GLAZED LAMB PATTIES

1½ pounds ground lamb
1 cup soft bread crumbs
¼ cup milk
1 egg, beaten
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon marjoram
¼ cup current jelly
½ teaspoon grated orange rind

Combine the 1½ pounds lamb with the one cup bread crumbs, fourth-cup milk, beaten egg, one teaspoon salt and fourth-teaspoon marjoram. Shape into six patties about ½-inch thick. Place patties on rack of broiler pan so top of patties is three to four inches from heat. Broil patties for 5 to 6 minutes.

Turn and broil four minutes or to doneness desired. Heat fourth-cup jelly slowly until melted, stir in the half-teaspoon orange rind and brush over tops of lamb patties to glaze. Makes six servings.

By ELISE GENDAR

Just because you're hungry doesn't mean you have to eat.

Decidedly not. In fact, if you wait 20 minutes, you may not feel hungry at all. Lots of diet problems could be solved with 20 minutes' worth of patience.

You see, those uncomfortable little spasms that we call "hunger pangs" aren't long lasting. Nor are they life-threatening. So what to do when pangs ping? It's easy to say ignore them, human beings aren't built to ignore anything. We're driven to act.

So act. But act without eating. In other words, do something else. For examnple, grab a piece of rope and start skipping. Or go take a shower. Or get up from your desk and walk down the hall. In other words, change your focus. Get your mind off what your stomach is saying to you and concentrate on some other part of your body or on someone else. Within a short span, no hunger pangs.

You need to know that you may have momentary discomfort, particularly at the onset of dieting. If you've been overweight for some time, your discomforts have been more than momentary, so keep going. Keep telling yourself the pangs are not dangerous at all. In fact, if you stop to think about them, they aren't even that uncomfortable.

Turn the occasion into a positive. Take up a pencil and paper and make a list right now of the things that you can do the next time you feel 10:30 strike in the pit of your stomach. Dieting is pre-planning. Here's another list to arm you against adversity.

And while you're pre-planning, slip in some pre-planned snacks for those occasions when the hunger pangs are less pang and more hunger. What diet snacks do you like best? Are they readily available? No one else is responsible; you must care enough to do your best for yourself.

Perhaps one of the lowest of all low calorie snack recipes is the one I'm giving you today.

RED LICORICE CANDY

2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
3 packages dietetic cherry gelatin
4 cups diet cherry soda
2 teaspoons anise flavoring or extract

Soften gelatin in ½-cup cherry soda. Bring remaining 3½ cups to a boil and dissolve the gelatin. Add flavoring and pour into 9- by 13- pan. Refrigerate. When set cut into squares.

What's your favorite snack. I'd love to hear. Just write to me at The Diet Workshop, 2533 Taraval St., San Francisco 94116.

The Gamesman

Your Real Desires

How much importance do you attach to wealth, fame or happiness? Which of these is the more desirable to you?

In 1950 an associate professor of psychology at the University of Florida felt there was a need for a game that would help youngsters and adults determine the priority in their lives for such assets as money, fame, happiness and education. He called his game "Careers" and, since its introduction some 25 years ago it has become one of the 50 best-sellers.

Published by Parker Brothers, this is a family game for ages eight and up and two to six players. The game kit consists of a board, a pack of Opportunity Cards, a pack of Experience Cards, six playing pieces, two dice and a supply of play money. Also included is a pad of score sheets.

The game hasn't changed much since it was conceived, except for the career categories. The changes here demonstrate quite clearly how games reflect and mirror changing times. In the original Careers game, categories such as "Farming," "Going to Sea," "Hollywood," and "Uranium Prospecting in Peru" were featured. These have been replaced by the more contemporary categories of "Teaching," "The Arts," "Sports," and "Politics."

Careers is a "track game," which means players move their pieces around the board according to the throw of the dice. Each player is given a score sheet on which he must write down secretly his planned formula. Each formula must have a total point value of 60 points and is as good as any other as far as the chance of winning is concerned.

The experience and opportunity cards and play money are used to attain the players' goals and there is a fair degree of skill and personal judgment involved in the way a player utilizes these game elements to achieve his winning formula.

When Dr. Brown invented Careers he believed that he was providing, in game form, a way for people of all ages to evaluate and determine just what is important in life. He certainly succeeded in producing one of the best board games available. Careers is a game that can provide all the family with an insight into each others' goals and ambitions.

The Regent

By GENNY HOM
Commissioner of Outside Publicity

Congratulations to Yolanda Newton, Sheila Calabro, Karen Tamblin and Prima Dudley for being named All-NPL in girls basketball. Yolanda was chosen unanimously for the first team and Karen also placed on the first team. Prima and Sheila were named to the second team.

Serramonte High School has a new policy regarding students in the halls. If a student does not have a class for a certain period, he or she must have a pass from a counsel or Mr. Campbell will be in the halls after the bell rings with a suspension list. Students without a hall pass will be sent home immediately.

Seniors: If you plan to study as a legal secretary, a paralegal or a court lawyer, see Mrs. Haun immediately about a scholarship.

Auditions for Serramonte High's spring musical were last Tuesday. The title of the play is "Once Upon A Mattress." Many students have auditioned for the play and it looks like it will be a great success. Break a leg!

Today, an assembly is planned. The topic is "Black History."

Serramonte High has a Medical Careers Program, an exploratory career education course for students interested in health occupation careers. The chances of a student getting a job in the health occupations field are increased by this program.

In the first part of the program, Mrs. Calbreath, the program coordinator, familiarizes the students with the many fields of work involved in health occupations through guest speakers, field trips, reading assignments and films. In the second part of the program the students learn some basic working skills and observe people at work in health facilities and the community.

There are no specific requirements other than that the student be highly motivated and want a medical career. The program is open to any junior or senior in the Jefferson Union High School District.

In order to have better communication with students at Serramonte, the Executive Board has decided that all club presidents now will be members of the Student Congress, a liaison between the Executive Board and the student body. The next Student Congress meeting will be announced in the bulletin.

I would like to remind all Student Congress members that it is their duty to attend these meetings. If the representative can't attend, then the alternate should go.

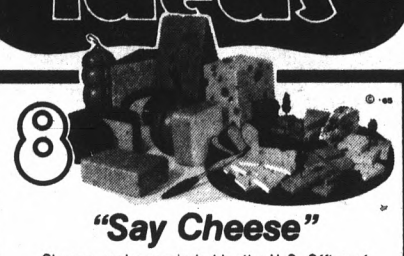
A Safeway service in support of suggestions from the U.S. Office of Consumer Affairs

INFLATION FIGHTING ideas



"Say Cheese"

Cheese, we're reminded by the U.S. Office of Consumer Affairs, is an excellent source of protein, calcium, certain vitamins and minerals and it comes in many forms. Depending on how you intend to use it, you may be able to save money by purchasing one of the less expensive varieties. For instance, a sharp cheddar costs more than a mild cheddar, primarily because it's aged longer. Processed cheese costs less than "natural" cheeses and may be preferable in cooking such favorites as Macaroni and Cheese since it melts more easily. It takes only a very little effort to cut, slice or shred your own cheese, and you will save money by doing it.

Safeway's cheese selection is one of the most varied, ranging from near-legendary imported cheeses to the finest domestic types. The U.S. Office of Consumer Affairs recommends that you include cheese dishes on your menus often. You'll be serving delicious food and fighting inflation at the same time.

Next week's Inflation Fighting Idea:

Le Pacini

All of the recent publicity concerning Willie Mays not being unanimously elected to the Hall of Fame and Willie McCovey not being unanimously elected to first base raised some pungent memories of how that duo once created for me a short-lived but rare and fascinating summer hobby — inspecting the for-sale homes of Hall of Fame and future Hall of Fame members.

It started in the summer of 1965, when my wife and I were house hunting. Our lady real estate agent's partner was a friend of Mays' and had sold his first home for him. During the period when we were house hunting, Willie's second San Francisco home in the Forest Hills section, was up for sale. Willie was divorced and eventually would re-marry and move to Atherton, but at this time he merely wanted to unload a home that was too big and complicated for a single man. Our agent had the listing.

It was up for $100,000, which in those days was a huge price. A $50,000 home in San Francisco, at that time, was considered an extravagance for most people and was billed as a showplace.

One Sunday, as the Giants were playing Cincinnati at Candlestick, we were driving around with our agent when she got the bright idea to show us Mays' house.

"No use even looking," we said. "No way we could afford it."

"Oh, I know that," said the agent. "It's just so unusual, you should look at it, for fun. Willie's playing today, and I'll just tell his housekeeper that you're prospects, and then I'll show you the place."

It seemed a sensible plan, so we agreed. What none of us realized, though, was that the Giants already had had one of their biggest innings of the year, scoring something like 8 or 10 runs in the first inning, and that Willie had been sent home to rest a body that had missed very little playing time that year.

So, when we rang the door bell, it was answered by Willie Mays himself, walking around in his stocking feet.

After we — our agent and my wife and I — recovered from the initial shock, we presented ourselves as prospects and Mays obligingly took us on a tour of the house, enthusiastically showing us all of the gimmicks (including draperies that swung back and forth electronically), the view rooms, hustling around the house as if he was on his way to scoring the winning run.

It was a beautiful house, replete with white rugs, a pool room, beautifully carpeted bathrooms, a view, a big enough shower in the main bathroom to accommodate at least an entire Little League team, a dramatic winding staircase, and huge color television sets in every room, including all of the bathrooms, and every set rigged with remote control.

The tour of the garage was even more eye-opening, because it summed up the story of Willie Mays, legend and human being; explained the price paid to stars, and the price of being a star.

Strewn about the garage floor, surrounding Willie's Cadillac (or was it a Thunderbird?), were hints of his two greatest passions, still-crated color television sets and untouched bags of golf clubs, all obviously gifts. In a floor-to-ceiling cabinet were other gifts which never were Mays' passion, booze of every description, all the best stuff, all unopened, which eventually would in turn be given as gifts (along, undoubtedly, with the extra color TVs and golf clubs) by the generous Willie.

But the most poignant collection of objects in the garage was a large box of toys, "For when my son comes to visit me," said Willie. And one had the feeling that that box of toys was a more treaured collection of toys than all of the adult toys in the house.

Well, that was that. We got out graciously, poor Mays thinking that he had made a great impression on a couple of potential buyers.

Several days later our agent took us to a house in Golden Gate Heights. There were huge initials on the double garage doors. One door had a "W" on it, and the other an "M."

I asked our agent what they stood for.

"Willie McCovey," she said.

McCovey, at the time, was going through a divorce, and though this house wasn't really in our price range (about $50,000), our agent thought we might be able to drive the price down quite a bit because he and his wife were anxious to get the property settlement arranged.

It also was a nice house, though certainly not in the class of Mays'. It had one of the first electric garage doors we had ever seen and a fantastic view.

Things got fouled up because Willie was in Atlanta at that time, on the front end of a long road trip, and communications were too garbled to make a deal to our liking.

We ended up in a house in Sherwood Forest we bought from a guy who owned a bar. He was happily married and moving to Twin Peaks, and it was a smooth deal.

Both Willies eventually found happiness on the Peninsula.

The Dodgers are in trouble.

They've gone about shoring up their bench with former Giants who cavorted for San Francisco during the dark days: Derrell Thomas, Von Joshua and Gary Thomasson.

Thomas was a congenital deformity — his attitude. If being a jerk were a felony, he'd be a lifer. Thomasson is versatile. He runs with both legs and can play several positions with equal indifference.

Joshua is fine, if you like .270 lifetime singles hitters.

Send that trio along with Charley Finley to the Bermuda Triangle for a weekend, and the Triangle would surrender.

What's wrong with the Warriors is so obvious and simple that nobody ever mentions it. Plainly, no team can lose two of the best forwards in the NBA in a period of two years and survive.

The Warriors miss Jamaal Wilkes, and especially Rick Barry.

One of the supposed drawbacks to having Barry on the team was that he was regarding the development of the leadership of Phil Smith.

It had become quite obvious, before Smith's tragic injury, that Phil is one good shooting guard, but that he wasn't leading anyone any place.

The spectacular performances of David Thompson and Julius Erving in the NBA All-Star game showed what fantastic athletes they are, and how a team game, such as is played by Denver and now played also by Philadelphia, can blunt the individual brilliance of such performers.

Only the Best for Jefferson

By CHRISTOPHER STAVE

In the Central Coast Section basketball playoffs, Jefferson High has reached the level at which opponents can come up with an answer to almost anything.

That's because Jefferson is playing nothing but the best.

Last night at Independence High in San Jose, Jeff opened sectional playoff competition against Fremont, the champion of the De Anza Athletic league, and the No. 2-ranked team in the CCS.

How did Jeff get so lucky? One, that's the way the draw turned out; the strongest regions of the CCS are playing each other right off. Two, Jeff lost the Region I title to St. Francis, 82-65 last Saturday night at San Francisco's Kezar Pavilion. St. Francis will play a slightly lesser opponent, Saratoga.

Playing No. 2 may not be so bad for Jeff, though. St. Francis has been ranked No. 1, and Jeff played St. Francis even for much of the game.

The North Peninsula League champion Indians matched their great team quickness and (nearly) unfailing energy against St. Francis' height, discipline and great shooting ability. For a while, it was a standoff.

While St. Francis big men Mike Norman (6-5) and Pat Rodgers (6-8) were popping shots in over the Indian zone, Indian star Darryl Rodgers was surviving the Lancers' man-to-man defensive pressure fairly well.

The Lancers — and especially guard Bill Larson — did a pretty good job on Jackson, double-teaming when he threatened to penetrate the lane.

But "DJ" still went for 14 first-half points, and made nifty passes leading to 10 more. Larson's bucket just before the buzzer only gave St. Francis a four-point lead at the half, 41-37.

"I knew every time I turned around there'd be a man behind me," said Jackson. "I'd planned ahead of time to make a few of those passes. There's got to be a man open.

"Their defense is good. But all that hand-checking. This isn't the NBA. Every time we set a screen, they'd push us out of it."

"He's one of the smartest players I've ever gone against," said Larson. "He didn't go one-on-one all the time. He'd draw two guys to him and sacrifice his own shot for the assist."

"I knew about DJ," said Norman. "He's a personal friend; we played all summer in a City league. He's a good player — a great jumper and a good ballhandler. We'd all try to help Bill when DJ started backing up into the lane."

Ultimately, the defensive pressure worked. Jackson tired at the end of the second quarter, and again in the fourth quarter. He was held to 20 points, eight of which came on free throws.

St. Francis, playing considerably better than it had two nights before against Aragon, started pulling away in the third quarter, putting four and eight-point strings together.

The Lancers were well able to play at Jeff's tempo. They break a press well, fast break well, shoot well, move the ball around a zone well . . . you name it.

Jeff played a good zone defense, considering that it had gone man-to-man all year. But eventually the Lancers got some easy baseline buckets. And even when they didn't they were hot outside — they wound up hitting 63 percent of their floor shots.

"They were a lot like I thought they'd be, only a better," said Lancer forward Brian Mortenson, who did a decent defensive job on Jackson when Larson was on the bench with foul trouble.

"We got sloppy on our own passes for a while. But we knew we had them on size. If they came out in their zone, we passed inside. If they sagged, we shot outside. That's been our success, opened up our offense."

Jackson narrowed the gap to 59-50 near the end of the third quarter with a flying slam dunk off an offensive rebound, and early in the fourth quarter Jackson scored again off a pass from Bob Oller to narrow the gap again, to 61-53.

But St. Francis cooly hit shot after shot at its end, and Jeff had a harder and harder time getting good shots off its offense.

Norman and Rodgers eventually fouled out — the Lancers are seemingly always in foul trouble — but by then it was too late.

"We gave it a shot," said Jeff Coach Bud Bresnahan. "We played well, I thought, good team ball. We could have executed our offense a little better, maybe, but I don't want to take anything away from St. Francis. They're awfully good.

"They did a good job on Darryl. And every time we'd rally, they'd have someone come down and hit the big shot.

"This is only the third or fourth game all year in which we've been really pressured.

"But this is the time for fun. Win or lose Tuesday, we'll be playing at Stanford at the end of the week."

St. Francis upped its overall record to 27-1. Jefferson is 21-5.

St. Francis' Rodgers led all scorers with 26 points; Norman had 18. Ken Mackey tallied 13 for Jeff and Ernie Dupree had 11.

Neither side was enchanted with the officiating, and said so, but ultimately the whistles didn't affect the outcome.

GETTING UP THERE

College Baseball Preview

College of San Mateo's baseball team has been king of the hill for a long time.

The Bulldogs represented the Golden Gate Conference last year in the state final game.

Winning is nothing new on the Hilltop.

Canada has hit the heights too — a state championship — but that was a long time ago, and when Canada finally moved from the Camino Norte Conference into the Golden Gate Conference — CSM's domain — the Colts had a lean time.

Now, though CSM is automatically a GGC contender, it looks like the Bulldogs could get a little heat from their Redwood City neighbors.

Only one of College of San Mateo's 10 pitchers this season has ever thrown a baseball for the Bulldogs before.

And the lone returnee, Rob Biagini, only had four decisions at that. Because of that Bulldog mentor, John Noce doesn't know just how good his team will be.

Noce has three starters back from last year, and two of them are possible All-State candidates: first baseman Steve Wallace and Dave Rosaia, who is being converted to a catcher from an outfielder.

Wallace made all-conference, All-Nor-Cal and second team All-State last year. He hit .372, including four homers and 17 doubles, and only struck out 13 times in 156 at-bats.

Rosaia was all-conference and second team All-Nor-Cal last campaign. He drove in a school-record 48 runs on just 44 hits, six of them homers.

"We're converting him to catcher because he'll be a better pro or college prospect as a catcher," said Noce, bidding for this 10th Golden Gate Conference title. "We needed a catcher, and he's it. He's made good progress."

The other returnee is last year's shortstop Bob Woodcock, who'll be at second base this year. Bob Silicani, a reserve catcher last year, but who played well enough in winter ball for the Dodgers to draft him, in the first round January, will be at third. Nye Akchurin or Bill Medrano will be at short.

A reserve last year, Jim McCrary, will be in the centerfield, and is much improved. Freshman Dan O'Regan out of El Camino will be in right, and either soph Al Pontius or frosh Mel Culpepper (Sequoia) will be in left. The other will be the designated hitter.

It will take time to tell just how good the pitching will be. But the potential is there. Biagini, out of Hillsdale, was 3-1 last year with a 3.74 ERA.

Six more freshman hurlers round out the staff. Rich Sentman, counted on for heavy duty this year, will not pitch at all because of arm problems.

One drawback for CSM is the 'Dogs don't have a lefthanded pitcher.

Canada College's baseball program had nowhere to go but up.

"Let's face it. Last year we would have been blasted in any league," said Coach Lyman Ashley. "It was the weakest team Canada ever had."

One reason is pitcher Paul Fox. Fox, a phenom at San Mateo High, spent his freshman year at Cal Berkeley, but has transferred to Canada. Fox, a hurler of proven quality, heads what Ashley calls "a quality group of pitchers."

It includes Hillsdale High grad John Catalano and El Camino alumnus Frank Vasquez.

Shorstop Billy Swanberg and third baseman Al Smoot help give the Colts a solid infield with speed, hands and hitting.

Other Colts to watch for include Gary Cordon, out of Crestmoor High; El Walton from Hillsdale; Mike King, from Daly City and Greg Eagleton from Westmoor.

Skyline College

In the North County, Skyline College Coach Bill Herron has not been overly excited by his team's performance in the early going, but he hopes the Trojans will be competitive by the time the Coast Conference season opens.

The Trojans took the conference's fourth playoff spot last year. But if they are to improve on that finish, says Herron, their defense must improve first. "Our big weakness right now is fielding," said Herron.

Bright spots, said Herron, are pitching and catching. "The catching is strong defensively," he said, "and our pitching has been doing well."

The pitchers include Gordon Shirley from Terra Nova High, Capuchino grad Rich Anderson, Matt Giampoli from Burlingame, Joe McClelland from Crestmoor and Eric Tretten from Oceana.

Trojan Cagers Nip Monterey

MONTEREY — Skyline College had to come from behind to defeat tough Monterey Peninsula, 65-63, in Coast Conference basketball activity Saturday night.

Trailing by as many as nine points four minutes into the second half, the Trojans began to peck away at the lead.

Rick Lundgren finally hit a pair of 20-foot jumpers to give Skyline a lead it never relinquished.

The Lobos went out in front early on the strength of the shooting accuracy of guard Fred Davis and the deadly inside movement of swingman Don Mock. Skyline was in the midst of a horrible shooting slump, connecting on only 39 percent of its shots in the first half and committing 10 turnovers.

In the second half, the Trojans found their rhythm and hit 60 percent of their shots.

Forward Reggie Love continued his recent success by pouring in 15 points and pounding the boards for seven rebounds to go along with his seven assists.

The win was Skyline's 10th in 12 Coast games. Skyline had clinched the outright title Wednesday.

The loss cost Monterey a possible chance to get the home court advantage in upcoming Coast playoffs. Skyline, by virtue of winning the title, is seeded directly into the Division II state tournament. The Trojans will host the second-place team out of the Golden Valley Conference (probably Mendocino or Feather River) Saturday, March 10, 7:30 p.m. Meanwhile Monterey must play at Cabrillo Wednesday night in the opening round of Coast playoffs.

Also scoring in double figures for the Trojans were Lundgren with 12, Louis Reynaud with 10 and Brad Levesque, who netted 12 points and nailed down 14 rebounds.

SKYLINE 65

Love 5 5-6 15, Reed 4 0-2 8, Levesque 6 0-0 12, Lundgren 6 0-0 12, Raynaud 4 2-3 10, Broussard 3 2-4 8. Totals: 28 9-15 65.

MONTEREY 63

Davis 5 0-0 10, Sims 8 0-2 16, Main 5 0-0 10, Frincke 3 1-2 7, Mock 8 0-0 16, Weller 2 0-0 4. Totals: 31 1-4 63.

Halftime Score: Monterey Peninsula 36, Skyline 32. Fouled Out: None. Total Fouls: Monterey 13, Skyline 11.

FINAL COAST CONFERENCE STANDINGS: Skyline 10-2 (21-7 overall); Menlo 8-4, 20-8; Cabrillo 7-5, 13-12; Monterey 7-5, 16-6; Hartnell 7-5, 16-13; Ohlone 2-10, 7-18; Gavilan 1-11, 3-18.

Skyline is Coast Conference Champion and automatically qualifies for Division II state tournament.

Bringing Up Birds — An Annual Project

Perspective

By ARVILLE FINACOM

At the end of a recent subtropical disturbance spawned off the Baja California coast, we had an unexpected visit from a gilded flicker. Caught in storm winds and pushed northwest relentlessly by the near hurricane gales, the cactus-dwelling bird, a kind of woodpecker, came to weary rest in our acacia tree late one afternoon. The following morning we watched it gorge on the grubs and bark beetles inhabiting a decaying stump in our front yard, then leave, presumably to track its way 500 miles southeastward to the desert it calls home.

Although its stay was short, the flicker was a noteworthy addition to the bird list we keep for our home grounds. Scrub jays, sparrows, robins, cedar waxwings, chickadees, bushtits, towhees, mocking birds, quail, native doves, juncos, hummingbirds and the canary-cousin goldfinches are regular visitors. At time hawks ride the thermals high above us and gulls swoop in low to settle on nearby school fields, sheltering from coastal wind and rain.

Of all our regular visitors -- excluding the impudent and daredevil jays who snatch green almonds off our trees then scold us later for harvesting what's left -- the towhees are the friendliest and easiest to observe. We began by setting bread crumbs out on our deck. Later, we added Cheerios when we found the care-taking parent birds liked to hang the O-shaped cereal on their lower beak for the quick flight back to their nestlings.

When the fledglings were old enough, parent birds often brought them to the deck to feed. The young were almost the size of the parents and yet still fluttered their wings and gaped their beaks waiting for mother bird to pick up and deliver a morsel to them.

Our deck, a story above ground, is edged with chain link fencing. Often, while mother bird flew up to the rail or onto the roof and chirruped encouragement, a young bird would hop to the edge, push through the linking and drop off. There was enough room for a few wingbeats before the ground rushed up to meet him.

How many towhees practiced aerial acrobatics off our flight deck we'll never know, since towhees have few individualizing characteristics.

Two did have interesting personalities, though. "Peep," as my young son nicknamed her, received everlasting fame as the bird which followed a trail of carefully spaced Cheerios set down by my middle son through an open sliding door, into our bedroom and down the hall before taking flight straight into the living room as my son called out, "Mama, Peep's in the house."

Another -- we called her simply "Broken Wing" for an injury which left her able to flutter-fly from tree to shrub but unable to fold her wing against her body while on the ground -- was noteworthy for her pluck. For several years she returned, bringing her fluffy-downed fledglings to our crumb feast, hovering about them with intense avian maternal solicitude.

Whether she had escaped the claws of a cat or suffered injury at human hands, we never knew; she would not allow us close enough to touch her. "Peep," although a true wild creature, did trust; and, as I cupped her tiny body in my hands, escorting her from a perch on my living room drapes back to the great outdoors, she rested quietly, permitting my young sons to stroke her feathers and wonder at the brightness of her dark and gleaming eyes which watched them intently.

Because many parent birds locally do not survive crippling injury, the Wildlife Team at Peninsula Humane Society began a highly successful In-Home Orphaned Bird Program last year. Volunteers, trained to "parent" nestling and fledgling wild song birds, saved nearly 65 percent of those brought to society headquarters. Left alone, all probably would have died in the wild.

This year the program returns with the first training class being offered March 7. I talked with Trudi Hartley, a two-day-a-week volunteer at PHS, who often is at the shelter twice a day during baby bird season, about the program she directs. Volunteers, in groups no larger than 10 each, receive a two-hour orientation in which they learn how to handle baby birds, nestlings (under two weeks of age) and fledglings (two to six weeks old), and how to supply its needs for food, warmth and cover.

During baby bird season, which begins about mid-April, peaks in May and tapers off through June, volunteers are given a refresher briefing when they are assigned two or three baby birds to take home in a berry basket "nest" lined with tissue. Rarely are they given a single bird. Strangely, lone little ones imprint "human" and when put later with their own kind refuse to socialize, seemingly not realizing they are birds.

According to Mrs. Hartley, the goal of the program is "raising to release." "These are wild birds," she stresses, "and we try to keep them wild." When brought to the shelter they become official statistics since the PHS Wildlife Program is operated under permits granted by the U.S. Department of the Interior, Fish and Wildlife Service and the California Department of Fish and Game. Volunteers are licensed by these agencies to provide in-home care since many of the wild birds can't be confined legally.

As soon as the young bird reaches full feather, at about six weeks of age, he goes into a pre-release aviary. Four of these large outdoor cages, on private residence grounds, serve PHS. After about two weeks there, birds are released at selected sites where competition among their kind is low and where predators don't pose an overriding threat.

Volunteers willing to consider in-home wild bird care need to realize it is a dawn-to-dusk task. Very young birds require feeding at half-hour intervals during daylight hours; their nests must be kept clean and warmed evenly. Observation and recording of unusual behavior is essential.

But caring for the birds in-home is not the only way an interested person can help. At the peak of baby bird season often 20 young birds are brought to the shelter each day. People willing to spend some time with these little ones awaiting pick-up or delivery to an in-home setting, can look after them for an hour or two at the shelter. Drivers are needed, too, to transport the nests and later the birds to release sites.

Currently Mrs. Hartley does not have nearly enough volunteers to handle the expected rush of 400 to 500 orphaned birds this spring. If you're interested in knowing more about the program, call the Wildlife Team at PHS, 344-7643, or stop by the facility, 12 Airport Blvd., just north of Coyote Point Drive in San Mateo.

50 YEARS

Patrick and Celia O'Grady recently celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary at Our Lady of Mercy Church in Daly City. They renewed their marriage vows and the Rev. Father Joseph Gordon officiated at the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass. Two of their 16 grandchildren served as altar boys and 10 of their grandchildren took part in the spiritual readings. Pat Campbell and Mary Campbell were the choirists. Family and friends celebrated the occasion at a reception following. The couple's daughter and son in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John McKenney, took them on a "second honeymoon" to their homeland in Ireland.

'Friends' Seek Members

March is designated Membership Drive Month by the Friends of the Daly City Library, according to Membership Chairman Denise Schwarzbach. Joining with the chairman in planning the drive are committee members Verna Teglia, Helen Robinson, Louene Rossina, and President Virginia Tierney, ex-officio.

The non-profit Friends group is 23 years old and was formed to foster closer relations between the Daly City Library and the public and to cooperate with the Board of Trustees and the City Council to secure better library service.

To date this fiscal year the Friends have presented five book reviews, a program on opera, an exhibit and display of gardening books at the Daly City Garden Club's flower show, and two successful book fairs.

A pilot program stressing the importance and techniques of reading to children and discussion and mini-reviews of children's literature is scheduled, free of charge, for March 31 from 1 to 2:30 p.m. in the Westlake Park Clubhouse. Because this is International Children's Year, the Friends are purchasing children's books for the library from unspent funds earned last year.

Previous collections of books as gifts to the Library in the past have been the initial large print books, Spanish heritage, Philippine heritage, and the initial collection of preschool picture books for the Serramonte Library.

Many other books in special fields of interest have been donated in honor of or in memoriam of members or outstanding citizens of the community. Various kinds of equipment, records, films, and prints of great art have been given over the years.

A donation of $500 made possible the self-perpetuating rental collection of best sellers and other most-wanted books for the Westlake Library. To be included in this collection a book must be on the shelves or ordered by the library and available free of charge.

A Silver Tea prefaced a drive to furnish and equip the community room in the Serramonte Library. Eventually over $9,000 was raised for this purpose.

New memberships are welcome and may be sent to the Friends at 275 Southgate Ave. New memberships paid now will extend through May 31, 1980. Dues, which are tax deductible, are a minimum of $2 for individuals; $3.50, families; $5, organizations, and $25, patrons.

CHIP OFF THE OLD BLOCK

Joseph Heaton, left, and his son, Scott, show some of the paintings they have on display this month on the upper level of Daly City's City Hall. A resident of Daly City, Scott has been painting since his early teens. He likes to use oils and acrylics and does pencil sketches, too. His father, who resides in South San Francisco, specializes in landscapes done with oil paints. Painting is an after-hours pursuit for both. Scott works for Pan American Airways at San Francisco International airport and his father is the president of a guard service in South San Francisco.

Tips on Injured Animals

QUESTION: Do injured cats have an advantage over injured dogs?

ANSWER: The old adage of cats having nine lives might be due to their weight and bone structure. The average cat weighs somewhere between six and nine pounds, and a few are over 20 pounds. In short, the largest cat is about the size of a small dog. The weight difference is important. While injured cats seem to suffer more from upper leg bone or femur fractures, they seem to escape the pelvic fractures experienced by dogs.

Here are a few tips for pet owners who meet with a catastrophy:

Stop the bleeding. Use a pressure bandage over the wound. A handkerchief or a clean cloth or towel will be a great help. Keep the wound clean, but do not attempt to clean it. Do not try to pick up any paralyzed animal. Use an "emergency stretcher" such as a board, window screen or a blanket pulled taut by at least three people.

Call a veterinarian or emergency veterinarian service for advice and to arrange for emergency service. Do not give any medication without the advice of a veterinarian. It may do more harm than good to provide aspirin, pain killers or tranquilizers.

If a limb appears fractured or broken, wrap it firmly in a towel, newspaper or magazine as a temporary splint. Try to avoid the use of a tourniquet to stop the flow of blood. Use the pressure bandage method. Avoid muzzling the animal -- or use it for only a short time and then remove it.

Although it is advisable to avoid carrying a large injured animal in your arms, small dogs or cats may be cradled with equal support of all limbs.

QUESTION: We think we have male and female turtles, but are not sure. These were given to us by a friend who wasn't sure about their sex. Is there any way of telling -- they both look alike and are about the same size.

ANSWER: My friends at the Bay Area Turtle and Tortoise Society (BATTS) have informed me that sexing turtles can be difficult. Sex determination depends first of all on sexual maturity. Most aquatic turtles reach sexual maturity from three to seven years of age. Land turtles reach maturity somewhat later, at seven to 12 years.

Secondly, sex determination depends on the species in question. In the case of common pet turtles, the red-eared slider, the following characteristics are used to determine sex. Males have longer claws on their front feet, their tails are larger and longer and their body conformation is more streamlined.

The female has a more rounded or domed carapace to allow for egg development. The carapace of the mature male land tortoise has more concavity of the ventral surface than the female.

Ample Free Parking
Vince's Convenience

Lunch, dinner or cocktails at VINCE'S Italian and Seafood restaurant in San Mateo is pleasurable enough in itself. But the fact that Owner NINA LICATA and son-manager TONY also offer ample free parking for more than 100 cars makes convenience and pleasure go handin hand when dining here ... It's a double opportunity for enjoyment at JOHN & KATHY'S in South San Francisco. The restauant, where Owner KATHY WIMSATT serves home-cooked food, is open from 8 a.m. for breakfast, lunch and dinner. The adjacent cocktail lounge opens at noon, with Happy hour (5 to 7 p.m.) Mondays through Friday. Live music and dancing on Friday nights from 8 p.m. ... There probably wouldn't be space enough on the walls to hang all the plaques and certificates that have been bestowed upon L'AUBERGE French restaurant over the 14 years this unique French country inn has attracted appreciative patrons to Redwood City . . . PHIL LEHR'S Pay-By-Ounce STEAKERY, on the lower level of the San Francisco Hilton Tower, is open for dinner 'til midnight seven days a week, so it's a popular late evening dining spot for show biz celebrities ... When you order the Plain Enchilada at LA PINATA Mexican restaurant, a tortilla is filled with your choice of spicy ground beef, chicken or cheese, and topped with mild chile sauce, melted cheese and diced onions ... The acoustics at BAYHILL LOUNGE must be particularly well suited to the musical talents of INDEED, the popular group currently playing for the dance crowds on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights from 9 p.m. Reports from many of the "regulars" are that really super sounds emanate from this Bayhill Shopping Center lounge ... Between supervising interior fixturing and decor of his new Italian restaurant, LA BELLA PASTA, which will open soon by the lagoon at Edgewater Place Shopping Center, Foster City, Owner SALVATORE FAVA is getting those gourmet recipes from his famed La Contadina restaurant in San Francisco's North Beach ready to go. Watch for news of his opening date. . . . The "Early Bird" gets the "Special" at the BOAR'S HEAD, where $4.95 buys a special dinner with an entree choice of fresh fish, Marinated Chicken or Prime Rib ... Each of the three restaurants (NICK'S, THE MOONRAKER and CAPTAIN CHARLES) owned by NICK and LORRAINE GUST and son CHUCK in Rockaway Beach has an individual history. But how Captain Charles got its name is particularly unique. You can read the whole fascinating story on the menu when you visit this gourmet seafood restaurant, which overlooks the ever-surging surf ... . . . When you have a name like ENRICO ROMANO and you run a cozy ristorante-bistro called ROMANO'S customers naturally get the idea you are good with Italian food. That's why "Rico" makes sure that his Rockaway Beach restaurant always stays outstanding in quality and selection. "Only the best is good enough for my customers," says Rico . . . Under the skilled guidance of General Manager JIM RAINE, the new Brass Elephant dining room and lounge at the GROSEVENOR AIRPORT INN, South San Francisco, is rapidly becoming the place to see and be seen for lunch, dinner and in between. The menu is varied and the super Salad Table, with its more than 20 offerings, is included with all dinner entrees, or can be ordered for lunch ($3.25), dinner ($3.95), or with any of the all-day entrees for $1.25.

. . . It's not that she's unwilling to share her culinary expertise, but cooking is a personalized thing with TILLIE SCHOLTZ. Whenever anyone asks her for a recipe for one of the specialties served at her TILLIE'S LIL FRANKFURT, in Moss Beach, Tillie says, "A little of this and a pinch of that." Anyhow, you'll revel in the result if you relish home-cooked German food. . . . JACK O'BRIEN, PAT FINNEGAN and LES HYLTON, thoughtful trio of hosts-owners at BEARDSLEY'S restaurant lounge in Burlingame, have arranged their menu so you can order either an 8-ounce or 12-ounce steak or cut of prime rib (the latter slowly roasted in rock salt and marinated in exotic herbs) and priced them accordingly . . . Eleven beautiful Irish coleens and a male singer, visiting from Ireland, got a rousing ovation when Bruce Savage had them sing at Al Rik's popular pianobar at that San Francisco landmark, Lefty O'Doul's. They wanted to hear other singers while in town, so Al suggested the nearby LEHR'S BOCCE BALL OPERA ROOM and LEHR'S GREENHOUSE Garden restaurant and Cabaret Disco . . . Song stylist DONNA MARIE brought her band to the SERRAMONTE JOE'S restaurant Tuesday night for a sneak preview opening. Because her singing range is so great, she has been compared with Barbra Streisand . . . The exceptional menu at Jim Sniadecki's Scotty Campbell's restaurant calls for unbridled appetites and appreciation of good food. Prime Ribs of Beef is a noble favorite here . . . Bill Monroe, managing partner of Rosebud's English Pub, is affectionately known as "The Mayor" of San Francisco's Geary Street Theater Row. Bill's show place restaurant attracts overflow crowds daily for luncheon, dinner and late supper.

Sense Of Honor

"The value a man sets on himself is the true standard of his worth."
—Thomas Holbs

During a recent meeting a young man rose to support a program that had asked for funds. "It helped me get a job," he whispered into the microphone. "If I hadn't got a job, I'd be hitting the houses and stores right now."

Such sentiments, although often expressed by fine young citizens, imply that the speaker believes that society must buy his honesty and that he has no personal honor, no sense of right and wrong and no integrity.

Besides finding employment for such people, the social agencies would do well to remind them that honor — self-respect — is a personal thing that separates bold steadfast people from shivering weaklings. As the philosopher Tanner wrote, "Honor that is in good working order all the time is yet the highest level of a thoroughly genuine life . . ."

When one is fortified with personal honor, as Longfellow wrote, "None but one can harm you, None but yourself who are your greatest foe; He that respects himself is safe from others: He wears a coat of mail that none can pierce."

Self-respect, says Tanner, grows from practicing honesty, loyalty to truth, love of freedom, fidelity to loved ones, sincere friendship.

"Self reverence, self-knowledge, self control, These three alone lead life to sovereign power. Yet not for power (power of herself) would come uncall'd for, but to live by law, Acting the law we live without fear; And, because right is right, to follow right, Were wisdom in the scorn of consequence."
—Alfred Lord Tennyson

Sometimes it seems society bestows its prizes upon dishonorable people. But even if that were true, it does not constitute a valid reason for another person to become dishonest, and in any way abandon his own honor. If one is tempted to follow a dishonorable person who seems to be successful in life, he should ponder carefully these words by Charlotte Stetson Gilman:

"A man must live! We justify, Low shift and trick, to treason high; Or a whole Senate bought and sold, With the self-evident reply — A man must live! But is it so? Pray tell me why Life at such cost you have to buy. In what religion were you told A man must live?"

"There are times when a man must die! There are times when a man will die! Imagine for a battle-cry From soldiers with a sword to hold, From soldiers with a flag unfurled, This coward's whine, this liar's lie, A man must live."

Self honor and self-respect are still valued in society. A survey of the literature of the world showing that this is true may be found in volume two of "Great Books of the Western World." Chapter 35, Pages 728-747 constitute an excellent discussion of the place of honor in society and in one's personal life.

Moreover, it lists under well-chosen subtopics, references to volumes in the Great Books collection that picture characters who kept their honor as they met the situations of their lives. Finally, it lists additional readings that are worth the time one spends consulting them.
